

Storewiz Signs Reseller

Storewiz has signed an agreement with WebHouse to resell its cutting-edge technology

May 08, 2007

SAN JOSE, Calif. -- Storewiz Inc., the only provider of innovative online storage compression solutions, today announced that it has signed an agreement with WebHouse, Inc. to resell its cutting-edge technology to help address the ever-increasing data demand that threatens to overwhelm its clients' IT resources. With this announcement, WebHouse becomes the latest member of Storewiz's Vanguard Partner Program.

WebHouse, a service disabled veteran owned small business, is dedicated to helping clients devise storage infrastructure solutions for all of their business needs. Among the areas of expertise in which WebHouse specializes are storage architecture, design and implementation; archive; compliance; backup and recovery; disaster recovery and business continuity solutions (www.webhse.com). WebHouse solutions help customers streamline operations while minimizing risk to deliver improved performance and increased scalability for the dynamic enterprise.

"Our customers turn to us to solve their most critical IT and business challenges while maximizing ROI," said Daniel Kerning, WebHouse President. "With Storewiz's ability to compress data by up to five times the amount of storage that would otherwise be required, we are better able to fulfill our mission and deliver a state-of-the-art solution that meets customers' current and future needs without complex and time-consuming burdens to their IT staffs. We look forward to integrating Storewiz solutions into our product portfolio and are pleased to have joined the Vanguard program."

"With their recent signing of WebHouse to a channel partner agreement, they have joined a growing number of resellers who are able to bring our data compression solutions to their customers with the utmost service and satisfaction to those companies looking to solve an ever-increasing challenge of meeting today's data demands," said Jon Ash, Vice President of Sales, North America, at Storewiz. "By integrating our STN-6000 line of compression products into their current storage solutions, WebHouse is well-positioned to help companies refrain from over taxing their resources and budgets through a simple-yet-powerful compression technology that helps them reduce the amount of data under management."
